

Net-Noggin Awarded Disaster Planning Contract

Granger, IN, - February 12, 2008 –

Net-Noggin has been awarded an immediate contract by the Housing Corporation of a large Caribbean government to evaluate and re-engineer their networking, messaging and Internet infrastructures.

Under the contract, Net-Noggin will provide the technical efforts necessary to strengthen and enhance the current environment. With the annual threat of hurricane damage, disaster planning and redundant systems are critical for the protection of the tourism industry and the residents of the island.

“By enhancing the current environment with redundant infrastructure, communications and Storage Area Networking solutions, the Housing Corporation will achieve acceptable and sustainable recovery time objectives in the event of a disaster, including those caused by acts of nature or by hardware or software failure.” said Gary A. King, president of Net-Noggin.
